FRENCH AGAIN THROW BACK FOE

Crown Prince Continues to Hurl His Legions on Verdun

FEARFUL SACRIFICES

Twenty Thousand Teutons Said to Have Been Killed in Ineffectual Drives on Fortress

Paris, April 11—German losses at Verdun have now reached 200,000 the war office estimates today.

Berlin, April 11—More than 36,000 prisoners have been captured by the Germans at Verdun since February 21, it is semi-officially stated.

London, April 11—Under the most tremendous hammer blows in the history of the world, the French line is holding firm in the great battle raging about Verdun.

Wave after wave of German graycoats are rolling up against the French barricades on the six-mile front northwest of Verdun.

Bursting shell storms have shattered trenches, parapets and redoubts of the defenders.

The French are driving back the German legions in savage hand-to-hand fighting on the southern banks of Forges brook.

Beginning with heavy infantry attacks delivered last Saturday, the battle has hourly grown more violent as if it is about to culminate in a grand assault on both banks of the Meuse..

"If the French hold them this time Verdun is saved beyond a doubt," said an English authority today.

Twenty thousand Germans were killed or disabled in the first forty-eight hours of the new Verdun attack, Paris reports. The French losses are admittedly heavy.

Paris, April 11—The failure of the latest great hammerstroke of the Germans at Verdun has greatly encouraged the French press and public and confirms still further the general confidence felt in the ability of the high command. The attack is stated to have been one of the most determined of the great blows delivered since the battle began 50 days ago, and yet it yielded the least results of any of them, although the Crown Prince hurled two whole army corps against the French along a 10 mile front.

As Bethincourt formed a dangerous salient, its evacuation had been expected for some time and military observers long ago criticised its retention. General Petrain's unerring judgment in letting it go at exactly the right moment is now highly praised. While of little value to the French, it is of almost none to the Germans, as it is located in a hollow commanded by French guns on all sides, out of which it is practically impossible for them to debouch.

Abandoning the new open formation and the lately established practice of night attacks, the Germans yesterday engaged two army corps in dense masses against the French positions northwest of Verdun between Avocourt and Cumieres. Forces numbering at least a division and a half charged the line between Avocourt and Bethincourt.

They approached within 100 yards of the French trenches and seemed insensible to the fact that hundreds of their men were falling by the way, but notwithstanding their courage and the weight of their masses they were stopped. There was a dead line beyond which they could not pass. When the attacking columns were thinned out by artillery and machine gun fire so that a reformation became necessary the order to retire was given. Twice were they obliged to fill up the gaps in their ranks, but none of their three onslaughts shook the French line, which had been considerably strengthened in the region of Bethincourt by the withdrawal of forces from the dangerously exposed salient to commanding positions behind the village.

Two fresh divisions attacked Dead Man's Hill while the assault was in progress on the Bethincourt line, other forces at the same time trying to slip through the ravine near Cumieres. To aid the maneuver an attack was simultaneously made on the east bank of the Meuse, in the region of Champ Neuville-Vacherauville. The few hundred men who had succeeded in penetrating the ravine were left on the field after the action proved unsuccessful.

A third attack at the same time was delivered on a position strongly organized by the French northeast of Avocourt, the object seemingly being to drive in the French line far enough to turn Hill 304, which lies 800 yards south ahd constitutes what is characterized as the Gibraltar in the French line in that district. This attack met with more success than the others, but after the Germans had succeeded in getting a footing at some points in the trenches the French counter-attacked and the net result for the Germans was an increase in their losses from the French bayonets. It is stated that at the close of the day the French held exactly the same position as at the beginning of the attack.

The Germans losses are again said to have been on the basis of 50 per cent. of the effectives engaged and these included a considerable proportion of the German reserves.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

Counsel for Dr. Waite, Reserves Right to Change Plea.

New York, April 11.—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, who has confessed to poisoning his father-in-law, John E. Peck, millionaire drug manufacturer, of Grand Rapids, Mich., entered through his counsel yesterday a plea of not guilty, when arraigned on the indictment charging him with murder in the first degree. His counsel, however, reserved the right to change the plea within ten days.

District Attorney Swann consented to this arrangement and Dr. Waite was committed to the Tombs without bail, to await trial. No date was set.

The arraignment required only two minutes and Dr. Waite spoke no word but stood, pale and quiet, gazing at the floor, It was apparent that he had not fully recovered from his illness.

The prisoner was weak, too, from the strain of his experience, preceding his arraignment. He had been removed from the observation ward of Bellevue Hospital in an automobile driven by his brother, Frank Waite.

Before the machine started off Dr. Waite posed for a moment for moving picture photographers.

The trip to the criminal courts building was interrupted by a visit to police headquarters. There Dr. Waite was photographed, while his finger prints and measurements were taken. He declined to talk.

ENGINEER KILLS FIREMAN.

Petty Dispute Over Removal of Ashes Brings Fatal Knife Thrust.

Atlantic City, April 11— Vernon Lewis, 37 years old, a fireman at the Hotel Grand Atlantic, on South Virginia avenue, was stabbed to death by Nicholas Duray, the engineer, upon whom he had pounced during a quarrel in the engine room of the hotel early Sunday morning. Duray declares the killing was in self-defense and the police are disposed to accept his version of the tragedy. Lewis is said to have been drinking heavily of late and was in a surly mood when he reported for duty Sunday morning. He bitterly complained to Charles A. Shaw, owner of the hotel because Duray had ordered him to cart out the ashes, and when given no satisfaction turned on Duray with vile epithets. The engineer pushed the infuriated fireman away and returned to his task of cutting pipe gaskets with a sharp penknife. Here accounts differ, Duray declaring that the fireman grappled with him, while Mr. Shaw's statement is to the effect that Duray was attacked from behind and was being slowly strangled when he drove the knife into his adversary's heart.

Criticism in some quarters has arisen because Japan's adhesion to the London peace declaration was undertaken by the government without consultation with the privy council, but in defending the government's action, Count Okuma declared it was a natural result of the declaration of war by Japan upon Germany.

ASQUITH MAKES POSTIVE REPLY

Says There Will be no Peace While German Menace Lasts

REMARKS IMPORTANT

International Problems Must be Handled by Free Negotiations on Equal Terms to All

London, April 11.—Speaking at a government dinner to the French deputies who are visiting England, Premier Asquith made a highly important reply to the German Chancellor's speech. He said that Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg declared on December 9 that if he were to speak of peace proposals he must first see the enemy's proposals.

"What, therefore," said Premier Asquith, "the chancellor means by his readiness to enter negotiations is that the initiation should come from us and the decision rest with him. We must assume the attitude of the defeated to a victorious adversary. But we are not defeated and we are not going to be defeated, and the allies are solemnly bound not to seek or accept a separate peace.

"The terms on which we are prepared to conclude peace are the accomplishment of the purposes for which we took up our arms—namely, to prevent Germany from establishing a military menace and domination over her neighbors as her invasion of Belgium proves that she intended at whatever cost.

"The allies have intended as a result of the war to establish the principle that international problems shall be handled by free negotiations on equal terms between free people, unhampered or swayed by the overmastering dictation of government controlled by military caste.

"The allies are champions not only of treaty rights but the independent status and free development of weaker countries.

"Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's claim that when peace comes Germany must give the varicus races chance for free evolution along lines of the mother tongue and national individuality is highly cynical. After the war the allies are determined to see again the old Belgium. She must not be allowed to suffer permanently from the wanton and wicked invasion. That broken down country must be repaired and restored,."

Dealing with the chancellor's attempt to justify the present use of submarines by Germany Mr. Asquith said, that the allies were acting in accord with the principles and spirit of international law as applied to the developments of modern war. He said that he was not aware that one neutral had been lost owing to the allies' blockade.

The Dutch vessel Maria, the American ship W. P. Frye, were sunk respectively by Germans in September, 1914, and January, 1915. On February 4, 1915, he said Germany declared her intention of maintaining a submarine blockade of Great Britain, but not until March 11, last, did Great Britain announce measures against German trade which the chancellor suggests were the cause of the German submarine policy, ruthlessly carried out against neutrals and belligerents.

DEATH OF FORMER RESIDENT

Dr. J. B. Hodgkin, Passes Away in North Carolina

Dr. J. B. Hodgkin, who many years ago, was a dentist of Alexandria, died in Wilmington, N. C., last Sunday. His funeral took place at Falls Church this afternoon. The deceased was a newspaper man in his early years, having been employed by the Smiths on the Virginia Sentinel, this city. After the close of the civil war he was a regular contributor to the Gazette, and for several years reported the debates in the Board of Aldermen.

LOCAL BREVITIES

The Woman's Missionary Society of the M. E. C. S., will meet tomorrow Wednesday at 3 p. m.

A marriage license was issued in Washington yesterday to William A. Gibson, 29 and Jessie Chilcott Trux, 28, both of Alexandria.

A called meeting of the Columbia Steam Fire Engine Company was held last night at which action in respect to the memory of the late Henry F. Mansfield, a former member of the company, was taken.

The Rev. Edward T. Kirkley, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, has been ordained an elder of that church. The ordination took place in Baltimore on Sunday.

City council will hold its regular semi-monthly meeting tonight. It is expected that the board of aldermen will adopt resolutions of respect to the late J. M. Hill, vice-president of that organization, and adjourn.

MORE VESSELS SUNK

Spanish And Norwegian Ships Among Them.

Biarritz April 11—The Danish steamer Atlanta has landed at Socoa, Bay of Biscay, 36 survivors, several of whom are women, from the Spanish steamer Santanderino of Bilbao, which was torpedoed.

Four passengers all of them Spanish, were drowned.

London, April 11—Eight ships have been sunk by torpedoes, yesterday's reports say. One Spanish, one Norwegian, the rest being British. Among the victims is the big freight liner Eastern City.

The Spanish steamer Santanderino was sunk by a torpedo, according to an announcement made by Lloyds last night.

The same agency says that the British steamer Margam Abbey has been sunk and with her crew is aboard a steam trawler which passed the Lizard bound for Falmouth. No report has been received concerning the crew of the Santanderino.

UNION'S DEMANDS

W. and O. D. Officials Will Consider List Submitted by Strikers Today

After a discussion of differences between the employes and officials of the Washington and Old Dominion Railroad that consumed more than three hours yesterday afternoon, the arbiters decided to adjourn until tomorrow in order to allow the railroad officials time to consider a complete list of grievances that will be presented by the employes today.

At a mass meeting last night at Clarendon, Va., of the striking employes addresses were made by Representative Carlin, "Mother" Jones, organizer of the West Virginia miners Rezin Orr, organizer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Railway Employes; Grant Hamilton and L. A. Stern, of the American Federation of Labor, and Frank Ball, Commonwealth's attorney of Alexandria county.

The Union Carmen's Committee of the Washington Railway and Electric Company filed a brief with the public utilities commission yesterday asking the reinstatement to work of five of the company's discharged men, who, they claim, should be put back to work by terms of the agreement reached between the officials and employes March 11 which settled the recent street car strike.

A resolution indorsing the stand taken by the locked-out employes of the Washington and Virginia Railway Company was adopted by the members of Division 699, International Order of Carmen, and citizens of Virginia at a meeting held last night at Clarendon, Va., L. A. Stern presided.

A posse was yesterday searching the nearby country for Arthur Akers a negro, who, crazed by sight of his wife talking to another man, ran amuck at Stuttgart, Ark., Sunday night, killing seven persons, all negroes, and wounding two others with a double barreled shot gun. With a razor in one hand and a gun in the other, Akers entered a negro church after killing his wife and her companion. There he fired one barrel, killing four more negroes instantly. He then went to the railroad station, where he stabbed a negro porter and cut the throats of a horse and a dog.

VILLA ELUDING HIS PURSUERS

Bandit Said to be Heading For City Held by Arrietas

U. S. CITIZENS KILLED

Outlaw Located by Rumors at Tepehuanes, on Road to Capital—Carranzistas Accused.

El Paso, Tex., April 11—United States cavalry is reported today to have crossed into Durange state after Villa.

Far in advance of them, Villa is said to have reached Tepehaunes on the state road to Durango City.

Besides these unconfirmed reports, arrivals from Chihuahua City today bring a new version of Villa's injury at Guerrero on March 30.

They said Andreas Rehaza, a Mexican, shot Villa through the leg after Rehaza's daughter had been outraged.

Villa's men caught Rehaza while Villa, personally, still suffering acutely from his wound, put a bullet through Rehaza's brain.

The Chihuahua passengers also didded Leon Bari, a French merchant of Guerrero, four Arab peddlers and a number of Mexicans to the three Americans and two other foreigners reported killed by Villa's men at Minaca and Guerrero.

The Americans from Chihuahua city denounced the Carranzista forces in Southern Chihuahua, charging them with stepping out of Villa's way after he defeated them at Guerrero.

His flight from the American pursuit was through Minaca and La Junta, thence through El Rancho de Santiago and Cierro Prieto to Satevo and Ojo Azules.

No opposition was offered by Carranza soldiers at any of these places, the refuges declared, and Carranzistas did not leave Chihuahua city to take up the pursuit until Villa was well on his way to Durango.

A portion of the Durango garrison under the Arrieta brothers is reported to have declared itself against the American invasion of Mexico.

Other reports are that the Arrietas are Villa's personal enemies and that they are entrenched at Durango City.

GERMAN PLOT IN CHINA

Plan to Blow Up Manchurian Railway and Steamer Reported From Shanghai.

Vancouver, B. C., April 11—Newspapers received aboard the Empress of Russia give details of a plot recently discovered in Shanghai involving the destruction of bridges the Manchurian Railway connecting with Russia territory and placing of bombs aboard the steamer Empress of Russia before she left on the trip just ended.

Details of the original plot for the supplying of several thousand rifles, ammunition and automatic pistols to a raiding vessel in the service of the Germans came out when two Shanghai merchants named Abbas, father and son, were caught. The rifles were seized, and the elder Abbas was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment his son getting two years.

Further investigation led to the discovery of a plant for making bombs and heavy ammunition, but for a long time none of the products could be found, it was said. The French police in Shanghai, it was learned, finally discovered some boxes in the bottom of a pond. The boxes were raised and were found to contain artillery shells for field pieces.

Arrest of a half-caste Chinese followed. He is said to have confessed that he was instructed by a German named Neilson, for several years a resident in Shanghai, to organize two parties, one to proceed north to blow up the bridges of the Manchurian Railway, and the other to go to Hongkong and put time bombs aboard the Empress of Russia then preparing for ehr trip to Vancouver.

CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR

Prince William Farmer Would Antagonize Mr. Swanson.

Cincinnatus, turning furrows on his farm in Prince William county, read in the newspapers the statement of Congressman C. Bascom Slemp, Republican, of the Ninth District, that an independent candidate for the Senate in Virginia against Senator Claude A. Swanson could be assured 50,000 Republican votes ,and straightaway went to Washington and announced his candidacy yesterday.

W. B. Doak, a well-to-do farmer and sheep raiser of Manassas and Clifton Station called on Congressman Flood, Holland and Watson, Senator Thomas S. Martin and several others of the Virginia delegation yesterday, and after expressing his disgust with the delay of the Democratic party in passing the rural credit bill said he had read Mr. Slemp's offer to assure 50,000 votes to an independent business man who would run for the Senate in Virginia against Senator Swanson and had himself decided to accept the offer and make the race.

Mr. Doak, a man of about forty years, with red whiskers, told Mr. Flood he had been a Democrat all his life, had always voted the Democratic ticket, but that now he believed President Wilson and the Democratic Senate and House had broken their pledge to the farmers to pass a rural credit bill, and he was going to turn Republican or independent and run for the Senate.

He said he felt certain he could get the vote of the farmers, and with the 50,000 Republican votes offered by Mr. Slemp he considered his election sure.

Later Mr. Doak saw Senator Martin and told him much the same story related to Mr. Flood. After he told Senator Martin he was disgusted with the way the Congress had acted about the rural credit bill he informed him he was going run against Senator Swanson.

Senator Martin replied that his intentions were probably all right, that any citizen had a right to run for the Senate and that he (Senator Martin) could not object to that, but that he did object to wasting any more time talking with him.

The Prince William county farmer called at Banking and Currency Commitee rooms, but Mr. Glass was out. He inquired about the status of the rural credits bill before that commitee and when informed the bill was ready for action when the way was clear in the House, shook his head in a doubtful sort of way.

Chairman Carter Glass said that later Doak called him on the telephone in an impertinent sort of way and wanted to know how about the rural credits bill and what was the House going to do about it. His manner was so aggressive, impertinent and insolent, Mr. Glass said, that he declined to talk with him and cut short the conversation.

Congressman Slemp said he had not seen Doak; that he thought he probably came from Tazewell county some years ago, and that it was clearly an indication that the people of Virginia were thinking seriously of running an independent for the Senate.

FAMINE IN POLAND

People Eating Dogs, Horses and Other Animals

Chicago, April 11—A Chicago Daily News correspondent cables yesterday from Warsaw, Poland (via Amsterdam and London, April 10:) The people of Warsaw are facing starvation. Only the German military forces in this city are provided with sufficient food. Public announcement has been made of the prices charged for the slaughter of dogs and horses for food purposes. Business men, professional men, clerks and students are among those standing in the long lines waiting for food at the charity kitchens.

Children suffer the most, and each day many of them die for want of proper nourishment. Funerals are so numerous that coffins are carried on the shoulders of men instead of in hearses. The facts in the situation surpass in gravity anything described in fiction, or imagined by man, Warsaw is a smileless city.

ENTHUSIASM IN HOPEWELL

Steel Plant in New City Said to be Practically Assured

WILL COST $2,000,000

Business Leaders of Hopewell and Petersburg Get Behind Project to Push it to Success

Petersburg, Va., April 11.—What. ever doubt there may have been with regard to the $2,000,000 steel plant being located at Hopewell in the near future was dispelled at a mass-meeting of Petersburg and Hopewell business men, held in Library Hall last night, to hear the report of the Investigating Committee, appointed at a meeting of the Hopewell "Two Hundred Thousand League," on last Monday night. This meeting of the representative business men of two communities was the most enthusiastic ever held here and resulted in voluntary subscriptions amounting to $56,500 after adjournment had been taken and fully two-thirds of the crowd had left the hall.

So eager were those present to subscribe to the stock in the proposed new industry that they demanded the right to do so.

The meeting was called to order by United States District Attorney Richard H. Mann, who was elected chairman, with I. M. Warren secretary. Mr. Mann stated briefly the object of the meeting and called upon Chairman Sachs, of the Investigating Committee for his report.

Mr. Sachs stated that after a thorough investigation and consultation with President L. E. Johnson, of the Norfolk and Western Railway, the committee was ready to report favorably upon the proposal to establish this great industry at Hopewell.

Capt. T. F. Heath, of the committee, was called upon for a statement. In his opening remarks he expressed a desire to correct some misrepresentations of the press which he feared would lead the public to believe that the Norfolk and Western Railway would aid in the establishment of the plant in a financial way. "The Norfolk and Western will not have anything to do with the project from a financial standpoint," said Capt. Heath, "but we have been assured by President Johnson that his company would give the project the same consideration that it would any similar industry. The fact is that he advised us to put as much as $250,000 in the plant. In order to do this, Petersburg and Hopewell citizens must put their hands into their pockets and subscribe liberally to the stock and let the outside world know that Hopewell is on the map to stay."

Mr. Zimmer, of the committee, stated that it gave him pleasure to speak on a subject of so much interest to Petersburg and Hopewell. "The task is one that will require capital, brain, land and labor, all of which is here. The committee was materially encouraged by President Johnson in a personal way. If the two committees are to raise the quarter of a million dollars, all of us must work together, and I believe we can, and when we have accomplished the undertaking we will not have to take off our hats to any community. I hope you will do it."

According to the committee's report, President Johnson had assured it that he had investing friends to whom he would recommend the project, and with Mr. Johnson's recommendation the committee is confident of easily disposing of all stock not taken by Petersburg and Hopewell citizens in excess of $250,000 or $300,000.

TRIP ON THE MAJESTIC

Alexandria Merchants and Manufacturers to be Guests of Potomac and Chesapeake Co.

Alexandria wholesale merchants and manufacturers, who are members of the Chamber of Commerce, will be the guests of the Potomac and Chesapeake Steamboat Co., on a two day excursion down the Potomac on the new vessel of the line, the "Majestic" the end of this week. The party will leave here on Saturday afternoon and will return on Monday morning going as far as Nomini. About thirty merchants are expected to make the trip and they will carry quantities of advertising matter which will be distributed at the various river landings.

The invitation to make the trip was extended by C. H. St. John. vice-president and general manager of the steamboat company, at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held last night and was accepted.

A number of wholesalers of Alexandria will leave here on April 19th. for Richmond where they will attend a meeting to be held on April 20th. in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of organizing a state association of the wholesale merchants and manufacturers.

The Chamber last night endorsed the Stevens bill now pending in Congress. This bill regulates the price of advertised articles and has been considered by the Chamber at several previous meetings. Resolutions of regret at the death of Julian T. Burke were passed.

GIRL SHERIFF SAVES LUNATIC.

Rescues Him When He Jumps Into River, Then Faints.

Hackensack, N. J. April 10. —Miss Constance Kopp, girl detective and under sheriff is recovering from a severe shock suffered early yesterday, when she jumped into the icy Hackensack river and rescued a lunatic who struggled frantically to drown himself.

Miss Kopp earned her position as under sheriff by her daring and shrewdness as a detective. She was helping Sheriff R. N. Heath late Sunday night to take Tony Hajanicka, of Wellington, who was yesterday declared insane, to the asylum at Morris Plains. Mrs. Heath accompanied her husband and so did Deputy Nicholas Dunn.

Near the Hackensack Jail the man jumped and started on a run for the river. The whole party went after him, but Miss Kopp quickly outstripped the rest. The lunatic yelled and plunged into the water. Miss Kopp, stopping only long enought to throw off her coat and tear off her skirts, dived after him. She came up behind Hajanicka and caught him at the back of the collar. The man struggled but Miss Kopp held on. Inch by inch she fought her way to the shore, dragging the lunatic after her.

Sheriff Heath and Dunn helped Miss Kopp haul the man from the river.

The pulmotor was used for a long time before, he showed signs of life. Miss Kopp fainted as soon as she saw her prisoner was safe. Later she was put to bed under the care of a trained nurse.

Boothe, attorney for the water company placed George Uhler, secretary and treasurer, and David J. Howell, hydraulic engineer of the water company on the stand. They testified as to conditions of the water company's finances and plant. Mr. Broun made a personal inspection of the reservoir, water shed, etc. this afternoon and will return to his home tonight. As soon as the testimony of the 50 or more witnesses has been placed in form to be digested by him he will return to Alexandria and will hear the arguments of the attorneys representing the consumers and the water company.

BARNES VS. ROOSEVELT

Says Colonel is an Enemy of the American Republic.

New York April 11—"Mr Roosevelt is an enemy of the American republic and the most pernicious influence in this country upon the public mind—not even excepting Mr Bryan.

That is the answer of William Barnes to the story circulated in Boston shortly after the arrival there of Col Roosevelt on Sunday night, to the effect that Mr. Barnes believed that the Colonel would be nominated for the Presidency by the Republicans, and would support him if his belief turned out to be well founded.

Mr. Barnes went farther than that in a characteristic statement, he left no doubt of his belief that Col. Roosevelt himself had inspired the story that Mr. Barnes had talked of the Colonel's chances of being nominated at a recent gathering of Harvard men. He gave to reporters the names of men who were at the dinner, so that his denial of the Boston story could be confirmed. This is the statement of Mr. Barnes:

"This year the periodical candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt for President is based upon 'Americanism,' and such sporadic support as he is receiving comes from his declaration in behalf of proper national defense.

"Mr. Roosevelt is not responsible for any natural phenomenon, nor has he a patent on the obvious. That this country should be properly defended—as it is not defended now—is now open to debate.

"Mr. Roosevelt is an enemy of the American republic, and the most pernicious influence in this country upon the public mind—not even ecepting Mr. Bryan."

FLAG INSULTED AT SCHOOL

Mayor Mitchel Orders Inquiry Into Incident

New York, April, 11—Mayor Mitchel today requested President William G. Willco, of the board of education, to investigate an alleged insult to the American flag at a meeting held Sunday night in the Washington Irving High School. Pointing out the state law covering such offenses, the Mayor said:

"It seems to me unspeakable that there should be heard in a public school in this city such utterances as I understand were made."

The speaker to whom the alleged insult was attributed was James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor. In opposing the proposed establishment of a state constabulary in New York, he was quoted as having shouted, "Down with the Stars and Stripes!"

TATTOOED STRANGER

Body Taken From Creek Literally Covered With Indian Ink Signs

Richmond, April 11— The stranger believed to be Bernard T. Kelly, whose body was found in Shockoe Creek Sunday, might well be called the Tattoo man.

When they examined his body yesterday at Billups' morgue, Detective Sergeants Wiley and Kellam found it literally covered with marks and designs inscribed in Indian ink. Never in all their life, they said later, had they ever seen so many tattoo marks on one man.

On the breast was a large spreadeable engaged in a fight with a serpent. One the right forearm was a cross surrounded by flowers with a woman's face at the bottom. Below the design were the words, "In memory of mother." On the same arm was a coat of arms with clasped hand with the initials "J. E. K." a woman, apparently a Japanese, was also inscribed on this arm. On the left shoulder was a woman's head and bust bearing the initials "F. A. T. N." On the left forearm were a sailor and girl. Another eagle was also insmribed on this arm. Directly under the heart was a pretty design consisting of a heart, anchor, cross and wreath.

THE SECOND GREAT WAR.

After George III. had signed the treaty between the British nation and the United States of America, acknowleging the freedom of the latter, an enthusiastic French official met Dr. Franklin and extending his hand congratulated the great American on the success of the war for freedom. Franklin thanked him, but said, "There will be another war; we have merely won the first." Another was precipitated by England in 1812.

Far-seeing statesmen are now viewing with alarm conditions which are sure to arise after the present terrible war shall have ceased. The sword will have been sheathed, but an economic struggle is inevitable, and many years may pass away before affairs will reach the normal.

The announcement that representatives of the Allied powers will begin their conference in Paris on April 20 for the discussion of economic and commercial questions is one of the highest importance and significance as is suggested by a-cotemporary. It is a formal and public recognition of the fact that the commercial and economic problems created by the war and which will arise for settlement after it is over, will be even more serious and difficult than those of a political and territorial character. The fact is beginning to dawn upon everybody that in plunging into this war Europe has raised a devil in the shape of financial, economic and trade questions which it may be much harder to lay after peace is declared than the fiend of militarism. The combatants virtually have blow up the foundation of peaceful progress and are now coming to realize that they must build up almost every part of their civilization anew. We have not been able to escape entirely the injurious effects of their war activities. But we are likely to feel much more severely and directly the economic effects of the new era which will begin with the cessation of armed conflict. That is the reason why this Paris conference is of more practical interest to us than the operations at Verdun or a gathering of Russian legions along the eastern front.

What actually will be done at Paris remains to be seen, and what is done there may not be finally ratified by the several countries that are parties to it. The program of subjects outlined seems, however, to indicate a disposition to adopt an extreme commercial policy after the war which must affect the whole world and which will retain, in peace, the spirit of warlike antagonism. For instance, the conference is to discuss "an understanding concerning legislation to regulate commercial relations among the belligerents, precautionary measures to be taken against invasion of allied countries by German products after the war, agreements relative to the international transport of goods the commercial regime of the colonies of the allied countries." and other kindred subjects. The central thought behind the conference seems to be expressed in the statement that Premier Hughes of Australia, who is to be a delegate, "is expected to take an advanced position for a joint tariff system which will establish minimum rates among the Allies and their colonies, reasonable rates for neutrals and strong discrimination against all dealings with hostile countries."

This attitude means a commercial continuation of the war and of the friction and the jealousies which gave rise to it.

CAPE HENRY FORTIFICATION.

Provision for the proper fortification of Cape Henry has been long and unwisely delayed, but the bill which has just passed the House will give the necessary opportunity. Baltimore Washington and incidentally Alexandria, are deeply interested in this subject. This fortress should have been built long ago, and would have been had not the pork barrel held a higher place in Congressional estimation than the protection of the country. Now under the fortifications bill, we are to get busy on its construction, and if we are allowed to complete it before an enemy assails we shall have something worth while at that point.

But it will take nearly three years to complete, according to the statements from Washington, and meanwhile the gateway to the capital will be inadequately defended. We hope it will not take that long, and that the government will give a rush order with regard to it. But, hurry, as we may, that and other coast defenses will require many months to perfect. Nor can battleships be built in a day. A sudden emergency might find us in very bad shape for resistance against a well-equipped and aggressive enemy And it may be that such an enemy will not wait for us to get ready, but may strike us before we have time to prepare. All of which proves the folly of putting off so important an item as preparedness to the last moment, and the necessity of making extra haste now.

WHO STRUCK THE SUSSEX

Since the classic interrogatory, Who struck Billy Patterson? first arose there has not been created such a criss-cross, crazy puzzle as that which is expressed by the parallel question, Who struck the Sussex? That it was smitten across the bow with a vigor that would compare with the famous putting-to-sleep blow of a prizefighter there is no doubt. Indeed, the ship came limping in with its nose bleeding and its body battered. Who was responsible? Until the categorical denial by Germany the responsibility was settled in the public mind. But as nations are not supposed to lie about such matters and to call one of them a falsifyer is to invite more than an unpleasant altercation between the accuser and the accused, public opinion is a bit mystified and the American State Department is up a tree, Accepting the disavowal of Germany at its face value, who did strike the Sussex the deadly blow that was delivered?

J. MARRIOTT HILL

(Communicated)

In the whole record of human character and effort, there is nothing so beautiful and so attractive as the story of a noble man's life, devoted to the service of humanity. This and more could be said of my friend, the late, J. Marriott Hill. The dreaded Reaper has been unusually busy in our midst the past two years, taking in his fold some of our most useful citizens.

A little boy at the outbreak of the civil war and his father being in hearty sympathy with the south, the early life of J. Marriott Hill was not a bed of roses. At the close of hostilities as a young man he determined to make his mark in life and it is needless for me to enlarge on his successes. As a newsboy he was alert and progressive, as a "printer apprentice," he was quick, and when he became an employer, those who knew him can testify to his big heart. Many mechanics in our city are indebted to his efforts for their success. Many gloomy homes were made happy ones by his generosity, and with all he did not seek notoriety. As a politician he had few equals and the highest office he ever wanted was Aldermen, which carried no salary.

His whole life was filled with acts of kindness for others and he abhorred the plaudits which usually follow charity. He was the most congenial soul that breathed, and in a company—rich or poor, of high or low estate—every man was his equal. He delighted in the pleasure of others. But he is no more. Mother earth will take to her keeping on the morrow all that is mortal of a noble, generous hearted citizen, and as the scriptures say: "In as much as ye did it unto the least of these, my brethren ye did it unto me"—hence his reward.

And so beside the Silent Sea
I wait the muffled oar
No harm from Him can come to me
On ocean or on shore.

I know not where His islands lift
Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I can not drift
Beyond His love and care.

GEO. H. HAYDEN.

SACRIFICES AT VERDUN

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)

If the French estimate of German casualties be correct—and it appears to have been made conservatively and supported by exact knowledge—the series of efforts to take Verdun already has become one of the most disastrous struggles in all history. To attain this objective—the fruits of which would be rather moral than material—the German high command already has sacrificed 200,000 men!

Only a policy mixed with desperation could dictate the payment of such a price. Now that it has been paid, Germany will keep up the effort until success has been won or failure finally and definitely established.

In a stragetic sense ,Germany can excuse her sacrifices, even if victory reward them, only as part of a plan to shorten her western line. Due north from Verdun to Liege and the Dutch frontier, or northwest to Brussels and Antwerp, runs the line she would naturally defend if Belguim and Northern France were evacuated. Such a retirement would reduce the length of the trenches from approximately 250 miles to 120, it if should be established on Liege and the Dutch frontier, or to 160, perhaps, if it were established on Brussels and Antwerp. In either event, it would release 200,000 or 300,000 trench defenders for active service elsewhere.

This purpose may explain the German sacrifice.

ECHO OF 50 YEARS AGO.

(Richmond Times-Dispatch April, 1866)

The farcical performance, known as the trial of the "Alexandria rioters," has come to an end. There was a street disturbance in Alexandria on Christmas Day, and the military authorities, taking cognizance of it, distorted it into a riot, in which it was claimed that certain whites were endeavoring to slaughter negroes without just cause, etc. A military tribunal has been sitting in the cases pretty much ever since, the members of which have been regularly drawing their per diem. The so-called tribunal has at last made its report, which may or may not be approved by the powers that be at Washington. The report finds Oscar Mankin guilty and gives him five years' imprisonment in Albany Penitentiary; John Lawler, two years, and John Travis, Joseph Horseman and Gilbert Simpson six months each, all at hard labor.

As was recently stated in the Gazette, Mankin was allowed to escape by a guard who had him in charge, and the term allotted to the others was lessened to a few weeks. The whole procedure, as the Times-Dispatch puts it, was a farce from beginning to end.

NEWS OF THE DAY

German losses to date total 2,730,917, London newspapers figure, by adding the German official casualty lists. Of these 681,437 have been killed

An unmasked mob of 200 men and boys took Carl Dudley, a negro from the jail at Easton, Okla., early yesterday and shot him dead in the jail yard.

Lieutenant General Sir Percy Lake, commander of the British forces in Mesopotamia, reports that the British attack on the Turkish position at Sannayyat, on the Tigris, just below Kut-El-Amara, failed to break through the Turkish lines.

Pneumonia, developing from a cold contracted about a week ago, caused the death in Baltimore yesterday of Patrick Dougherty, head of the tugboat firm of P. Dougherty Co., one of the largest concerns operating along the Atlantic seaboard.

While enjoying an afternoon ride in his automobile before returning to work, John R. Frey, 35 years old, was struck and instantly killed by a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train at York, Pa., The accident occurred at a grade crossing just south of York.

The first report of a German mutiny in the field is contained in the following dispatch from Amsterdam. "A German battalion at Mezieres, the remnant of a regiment that took part in the Vaux-Douaumont fighting, upon being ordered to return to the front mutined, the men saying they would not 're-enter that hell," Forty men were shot on the spot."

J. P. Morgan has made another important sale from the great collection of art objects gathered by his father. All of the tapestries lent to the Metropolitan Museum by the late J. P. Morgan have been sold to P. W. French & Co., for a sum somewhat greater than $2,000,000. The collection is generally supposed to have cost the late Mr. Morgan $75,000,000.

L. Strickland, a young farmer, is dead, and his brother, John Strickland, is seriously, but not fatally wounded as the result of a shooting affray near Chipley, Ga., late Sunday night when the men were en route home after a trip to Columbus. It was said the brothers quarreled over the question of which should spend the night at the other's home. No arrest has been made.

At a meeting in Berlin of the relief committee for indigent Jews the president stated that 700,000 Jews in the occupied districts of Poland required assistance. Thus far nearly $2,000,000 has been spent in relief work, which has been made possible largely by the help of Jews in America. It was brought out that further assistance is needed, a monthly expenditure of $125,000 being necessary.

Shan J. Nelson, a merchant of Shaw, near Chattanooga, Tenn., was shot and instantly killed Sunday afternoon after a quarrel with his brother, Mack Nelson, said to have resulted in the whipping of the merchant's four year old son, Mack Nelson was arrested charged with the shooting. Mack Nelson is said to have come upon his brother while the latter was punishing his son and to have protested. A quarrel ensued, which ended fatally for the merchant.

Unfamiliarity with the automobile which he was operating, and which plunged down an elevator shaft in the garage of the Zell Motor-car Company, in Baltimore caused the death of George Russell Clark, 18 years old, yesterday. Carroll W. Cook a demonstrator who was sitting beside Clark when the machine in which they had been riding plunged down the shaft, is in a serious condition, having ben paralyzed from the waist down when he and his companion were pinioned under the machine.

Calixto Contreras, commanding a force of Villistas, dynamited a train on March 27 at Mena station, between Durango city and Torreon, causing a wreck, in which 80 persons were killed A letter containing this information has been received by civil authorities at El Paso, Tex. The large number of fatalities is said to have been due to fire which started in the wreckage before passengers could extricate themselves. After getting all the obtainable loot the bandits are reported to have ridden away without offering any assistance.

SCENE FROM THE BIRTH OF A N ATION

"BIRTH OF A NATION."

World's Greatest Attraction Coming to the National Theatre Washington.

D. W. Griffith's master production "The Birth of a Nation" will be the attraction at the National Theatre, Washington, commencing a limited engagement Monday night, April 17. The performance will be given twice daily at 2:15 and 8:15 after the opening.

It will be brought here in exact reproduction of the greatest attraction which is now in New York where it has broken every record of the American stage. These achievements alone have aroused more comment upon the subject of this great story than was ever devoted to a theatrical enterprise before.

The merest statement regarding "The Birth of a Nation" leaps to superlatives because there is no other form in which it can be written. Simple facts in relationship to its developments sound extravagant until you have seen the production and realized a tithe of its sweep and power. It covers the essential details of American history ranging through three centuries. Actual battles are shown with tens of thousands of soldiers in the conflict. Eighteen thousand people participated in the telling of the story, Three thousand horses were used to give the cavalry and other thrilling effects of the wild dashes over miles of territory, Cities were built up only to be destroyed by fire. The total cost of the entire production was in the neighborhood of $500,000. Five hundred costumers and seamstresses worked for three months to make the costumes worn by the people. Ten thousand yards of cloth were worked into the costumes worn by the women while 25,000 yards of white muslin were used up in the regalia of the Ku Klux Klansmen. And yet with all this a simple, human story of love and romance weaves through the vast spread of the action and grips the hearts of the audience. The narrative is filled with tears and smiles. A symphonic score accompanies the action and lends a potent force to the drama.

FIVE BURN IN WAR BENEFIT

Child Performers in Cotton Snow Scene in Flames in Theatre Panic

London, April 11—Five child performers were burned to death on the stage of the Garrick Theatre, at Hereford, last week. It was a children's entertainment to provide comforts for the soldiers. The curtain fell on the final scene and the audience was departing when the cry of fire was raised. A panic ensued.

Many in the audience were crushed but none seriously injured. The fire was confined to the stage, where the performers were wearing dresses covered with cotton wool for a snow scene. The flames spread furiously and the children ran frantically about the stage, with their garments on fire.

In addition to those burned to death, several were seriously injured and are now in a hospital, reported to be in a critical condition.

POLITICIANS' AUTO KILLS

Crushes Motorcyclist, Caught in Cloud of Tossed Pamphlets

Chicago, April 11—Justin Jurn, aged 26, a foreigner, was crushed to death in a political demonstration Sunday. Several boosters from the City Hall faction had gone into the ward of Alderman Litzinger, between whom and the administration there is a bitter feud. These men were in a big automobile truck and were riding rapidly past the Litzinger residence, flinging large quantities of campaign literature into the yard.

The wind filled the street with the flying pamphlets and Jurn, riding on a motorcycle, was blinded by the cloud of pamphlets and collided with the rapidly-moving truck. He was instantly crushed and his motorcycle was reduced to scraps.
